The votes against the bill were cast by Senators Willis and Fess of Ohio and Borah of Idaho.

The measure provides the following schedules of salaries in the postal service:

An amendment proposed by Senator Borah and adopted by the senate provides that every contribution to foster or oppose the election of any candidate for congress or federal office, with the name, residence and official position, if any, of each contributor, would be made public at 10-day intervals during the coming campaigns. The amendment makes no attempt to limit contributions. Providing penalties of imprisonment for not more than one year, a fine not exceeding $500, or both, it brings within its requirements "all committees, local, state or national, and all persons, or parties, having any part or share in the election, or in the campaign for the election, of members of congress, and all officers or officials of the government of the United States."

In addition to the periodical publicity "a complete detailed financial statement," with names of contributors, is called for at the end of the campaigns, "together with the amount of any deficit incurred."

The senate agreed to vote next Monday at 5 p. m. on the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution. The amendment has already been passed by the house. The senate's vote assures final action on it this session.

NORRIS PROPOSAL BEFORE SENATE

Provides for Government Operation of Muscle Shoals.

FORD'S OFFER TURNED DOWN

Senate Agricultural Committee Rejects the Auto King's Proposal by a Vote of 11 to 5—Advocates of Ford Offer to Carry the Fight to Floor of the Senate—Features of the Norris Plan.

Washington, May 28.—Senator Norris' plan for government operation of the Muscle Shoals nitrate and power project was favorably reported to the senate by the senate agricultural committee.

Henry Ford's offer was rejected by the committee by a vote of 11 to 5. No action was taken on other offers for the plant. The Norris plan was reported by the committee two years ago, but failed of action.

The vote to report the Norris plan was 11 to 4. Advocates of Ford's and other private offers are forced by the committee's decision to carry the fight for their acceptance to the floor of the senate, where Ford's bid and possibly others will be offered as substitutes for the Norris plan when the disposition of the project comes to a vote.

The following senators voted against reporting the Ford offer: McNary, Capper, Keyes, Gooding, Norbeck, Harrell, McKinley, Norris, Republicans; Ransdell and Kendrick, Democrats, and Johnson, Farmer-Labor.

The Norris bill would provide for creation of the federal chemical corporation to control all Muscle Shoals properties. It would be directed to manufacture fertilizer and sell it direct to the farmers and would be used to establish selling agencies "in order to prevent a monopoly of the fertilizer business or the undue and unreasonable advance in the price of fertilizer."

Control of the corporation would be by a board of three directors, appointed by the president. A penalty of a $1,000 fine or six months' imprisonment, or both, would be fixed for the punishment of any director who allowed politics to influence him in the transaction of the corporation's business.

Power not needed for the manufacture of fertilizer or explosives would be sold by the corporation, with preference given to states, counties and municipalities, and if the power should be sold to a power company the corporation would have authority to fix the price to be charged to the consumer.

The bill would provide for the manufacture of explosives for the army and navy and in case of war the president would have power to take over all of the property, to be used solely for the manufacture of explosives.

AMUSEMENT BAN PARTIALLY LIFTED

Methodist Conference Adopts the Majority Report.

Springfield, Mass., May 28.—The Methodist Episcopal general conference partially lifted the amusement ban prohibiting dancing, games of chance, theaters, horse races and "other questionable or misleading amusements."

The conference voted to adopt the majority report of the committee on state and church. Methodists will in the future be required to refrain only from "such diversions as can not be indulged in the name of Jesus Christ."

The report scores improper amusements and contains a warning against attendance at immoral, questionable and misleading theaters or motion picture performances or dances. Expulsion from the church is a penalty only after continued offense.

The minority report, which would have made a more binding ban and laid stress on Sunday performances, dancing and other amusements, was rejected, 407 to 292. Only about 100 opposed the majority report.

Rev. Dr. Ralph Diefenderfer of Chicago was elected secretary of the board of foreign missions. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan.

Adoption of the majority report removed restrictions against dancing, games of chance and all theater attendance, in force since the church's inception.

ADAMS IN CLEVELAND

Republican National Committee to Take Up Contests Next Week.

Cleveland, May 28.—Chairman John T. Adams of the Republican national committee arrived here today from Washington. He will establish convention headquarters of the committee in the Federal Reserve bank building.

June 4 the national committee will meet to take up the contests. The entire state delegations of Mississippi and Georgia are being contested and there is one contest in Arkansas, one in Tennessee, one in South Carolina and one in the District of Columbia, each contest involving one seat. In all of the contests the contestants, as well as the contestees, are for President Coolidge, so the president's interests will not be in the least affected, no matter how the decision may go. The contests are inspired by personal rivalries.

A powerful women's lobby, representing the League of Women Voters, is being mobilized to march on the convention. Headed by Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland, president of the league, it will politely demand that the Republican party put in several planks in the platform calling for world court, protection of children in industry, equalization of educational opportunity and equal rights.

FRUIT JUICES BANNED

Supreme Court Sustains Conviction of an Ohio Man.

Columbus, May 28.—The Ohio supreme court ruled that a citizen of Ohio is not allowed to transport any naturally fermented fruit juices which contain more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol. The decision sustained the conviction of Joseph Osick of South Amherst, O., who was fined $1,000 and costs for "illegal transportation."

Osick had put up some cherry and blackberry juices a few months before he moved them with his household goods into a new home. He had failed nothing to make them ferment. Before moving, he asked Mayor Engle for information as to the legality of moving the juices. The mayor gave him no information, the record says, but when Osick began to move he was arrested and fined. Osick carried the case to the supreme court, but when he got there, he found the anti-alcohol league had injected itself into the proceedings and filed a brief against him.

Mrs. Adela Goldberg attempted to kill herself and five children with gas at her home in New York. Her youngest child, aged 10 months, was found dead by police.

NORRIS PROPOSAL BEFORE SENATE

Provides for Government Operation of Muscle Shoals.

FORD'S OFFER TURNED DOWN

Senate Agricultural Committee Rejects the Auto King's Proposal by a Vote of 11 to 5—Advocates of Ford Offer to Carry the Fight to Floor of the Senate—Features of the Norris Plan.

Washington, May 28.—Senator Norris' plan for government operation of the Muscle Shoals nitrate and power project was favorably reported to the senate by the senate agricultural committee.

Henry Ford's offer was rejected by the committee by a vote of 11 to 5. No action was taken on other offers for the plant. The Norris plan was reported by the committee two years ago, but failed of action.

The vote to report the Norris plan was 11 to 4. Advocates of Ford's and other private offers are forced by the committee's decision to carry the fight for their acceptance to the floor of the senate, where Ford's bid and possibly others will be offered as substitutes for the Norris plan when the disposition of the project comes to a vote.

The following senators voted against reporting the Ford offer: McNary, Capper, Keyes, Gooding, Norbeck, Harrell, McKinley, Norris, Republicans; Ransdell and Kendrick, Democrats; and Johnson, Farmer-Labor.

The Norris bill would provide for creation of the federal chemical corporation to control all Muscle Shoal properties. It would be directed to manufacture fertilizer and sell it direct to the farmers and would be used to establish selling agencies "in order to prevent a monopoly of the fertilizer business or the undue and unreasonable advance in the price of fertilizer."

Control of the corporation would be by a board of three directors, appointed by the president. A penalty of a $1,000 fine or six months' imprisonment, or both, would be fixed for the punishment of any director who allowed politics to influence him in the transaction of the corporation's business.

Power not needed for the manufacture of fertilizer or explosives would be sold by the corporation, with preference given to states, counties and municipalities, and if the power should be sold to a power company the corporation would have authority to fix the price to be charged to the consumer.

The bill would provide for the manufacture of explosives for the army and navy and in case of war the president would have power to take over all of the property, to be used solely for the manufacture of explosives.

The second deadly storm in the south within a month struck first in the area around Jackson, Miss., taking many lives and inflicting heavy damage to crops and buildings. A few hours later the tornado crashed into northern Alabama, killing 10 persons, injuring others and scattering dwellings. The same gale swept the little town of Elberton, Ala., near the Tennessee line, where eight were killed. Latest casualty lists follow: Creighton, Ala.—Ten dead. Mr. and Mrs. William Robbins and their six children, ranging from 6 to 18 years; Mrs. John Hays and Vera Abbott, four injured.

AMUSEMENT BAN PARTIALLY LIFTED

Methodist Conference Adopts the Majority Report.

Springfield, Mass., May 28.—The Methodist Episcopal general conference partially lifted the amusement ban prohibiting dancing, games of chance, theaters, horse races and "other questionable or misleading amusements."

The conference voted to adopt the majority report of the committee on state and church. Methodists will in the future be required to refrain only from "such diversions as can not be indulged in the name of Jesus Christ."

The report scores improper amusements and contains a warning against attendance at immoral, questionable and misleading theaters or motion picture performances or dances. Expulsion from the church is a penalty only after continued offense.

The minority report, which would have made a more binding ban and laid stress on Sunday performances, dancing and other amusements, was rejected, 407 to 292. Only about 100 opposed the majority report.

Rev. Dr. Ralph Diefenderfer of Chicago was elected secretary of the board of foreign missions. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan.

Adoption of the majority report removed restrictions against dancing, games of chance and all theater attendance, in force since the church's inception.

ADAMS IN CLEVELAND

Republican National Committee to Take Up Contests Next Week.

Cleveland, May 28.—Chairman John T. Adams of the Republican national committee arrived here today from Washington. He will establish convention headquarters of the committee in the Federal Reserve bank building.

June 4 the national committee will meet to take up the contests. The entire state delegations of Mississippi and Georgia are being contested and there is one contest in Arkansas, one in Tennessee, one in South Carolina and one in the District of Columbia, each contest involving one seat. In all of the contests the contestants, as well as the contestees, are for President Coolidge, so the president's interests will not be in the least affected, no matter how the decision may go. The contests are inspired by personal rivalries.

A powerful women's lobby, representing the League of Women Voters, is being mobilized to march on the convention. Headed by Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland, president of the league, it will politely demand that the Republican party put in several planks in the platform calling for world court, protection of children in industry, equalization of educational opportunity and equal rights.

Missionaries Slain?

Pekin, May 28.—Two American missionaries are reported to have been killed at Kweilin, Kwangsi, when northern troops besieged that city May 8. The report, which is unconfirmed, reached the American legation here from the consulate at Canton. Occupants of the Kweilin mission were Miss M. Coppell, Miss E. M. MacDougall, Miss N. E. Jones, Joseph Cunningham and his wife and a Miss Alvarson. They represented the Christian and Mission Alliance, headquarters at New York.

FRUIT JUICES BANNED

Supreme Court Sustains Conviction of an Ohio Man.

Columbus, May 28.—The Ohio supreme court ruled that a citizen of Ohio is not allowed to transport any naturally fermented fruit juices which contain more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol. The decision sustained the conviction of Joseph Osick of South Amherst, O., who was fined $1,000 and costs for "illegal transportation."

Osick had put up some cherry and blackberry juices a few months before he moved them with his household goods into a new home. He had added nothing to make them ferment. Before moving, he asked Mayor Engle for information as to the legality of moving the juices. The mayor gave him no information, the record says, but when Osick began to move he was arrested and fined. Osick carried the case to the supreme court, but when he got there, he found the anti-alcohol league had injected itself into the proceedings and filed a brief against him.

Mrs. Adela Goldberg attempted to kill herself and five children with gas at her home in New York. Her youngest child, aged 10 months, was found dead by police.

COPY FOR THIS DEPARTMENT SUPPLIED BY THE AMERICAN LEGION NEWS SERVICE.

THREE MEN LEAD IN MEMBERSHIP CONTEST

During 1923 honors for securing members for the American Legion were about evenly divided between three men. These, John A. Smith of Sioux City, Ia., a member of the Monahan post; Hans Hunsdorf, a disabled man, now patient in a Minnesota hospital; and John Kass of Detroit, led all others in securing applications.

Smith obtained his members in a rather unique manner. He worked out a scheme known as the "Cudaby plan" by means of which he caused the big industrial firms of Sioux City to pay up the dues for ex-service employees, utilizing a "checkoff" for repayment. His record approximated nearly one member for each working day of the year.

Hunsdorf obtained his members by personal contact, particularly in Veterans' Bureau hospitals, and wherever veterans gathered and rolled his record up to nearly 250.

Kass, a member of the Charles A. Learned post in Detroit, made an earnest campaign for his applicants, and is said to have interviewed more ex-service men than either of the other two "champs." His record approximated that of Hunsdorf. But to do this, he faced severe competition from one Theodore Kolbe, now department adjutant of the Legion in Michigan. Kolbe's record was near enough to that of Kass that it took a board of judges to determine the standing of the two.

Kass has already made a start toward a 1924 record. On February 29 he had collected dues and applications from 66 veterans. His method of enrolling the veterans as Legionnaires is simple but efficient. "I ask them," he says. Kass' accomplishment was completed within 18 days, the duration of the post membership drive. In addition he added members to other Wayne county posts.

His approach is such the Legion officials in Michigan believe that he must use more salesmanship than do either Smith or Hunsdorf. Smith's plan for reaching the industrial concerns is sort of an advantage, while Hunsdorf gets men who are daily enjoying benefits of the Legion, they argue. And Kass gets out and lands the members by hard work, according to their idea.

The three have on a triangular race for membership honors this year. The Learned posters have challenged Omaha post for the greatest membership during 1924, a record heretofore held by the Nebraskans. Kass is one of the main reliances of the Detroiters in bringing this honor to his city.

Hunsdorf is avowed to better his record by at least a hundred, and while the men of Monahan post in Sioux City are dependent on Smith to handle the recruiting alone, it is safe to say that his record will approximate that of 1923.

The "Man from Michigan" has already been proclaimed champion of the Wayne county council membership campaign, and his accomplishment requiring less than three weeks would apparently put him into the national championship class with good chances in the final outcome.

One-fourth of the estate of a disabled World war veteran who died in Kansas City, Mo., was inherited by the American Legion. The veteran, Earl Mason of Indianapolis, provided for the bequest in his will, which named the head of the Legion district hospitalization committee as executor. The estate amounted to approximately $350.

The will recites that "every consideration and kindness" had been shown to Mason by the Legion, and that he made the gift as a token of gratitude, and to assist in providing for other disabled veterans. Mason went to Kansas City several months ago broken in health and without employment. The Legion assisted him in finding compensation and hospital

U. S. Measures Snow to Aid Irrigation Projects

Extensive "snow surveys" are sometimes made by the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture in regions where the water required for irrigation is obtained almost entirely from melting snow. The mountain slopes constitute natural reservoirs, from which the moisture that falls in winter as snow is gradually led through spring and summer to the surrounding country. In order to ascertain the total amount of water available, the snow surveyor travels over the watershed, often on skis or snowshoes, cutting sections of snow with a cylindrical "snow sampler" and weighing them with a small spring balance. The weather bureau also maintains in the Western mountains a number of special stations at which daily measurements of snowfall are made for the benefit of irrigation projects.

The heaviest snowfall in the United States occurs in the high Sierra Nevada of California and in the Cascade range of Washington and Oregon. At places in both of these regions more than sixty feet of snow has fallen in a single winter. The snow sometimes lies twenty-five feet deep on the ground, burying one-story houses to the eaves.

Disease Caused by Tree Tapping.

A Dutch scientist has found that the disastrous brown bast disease of the rubber tree is caused by the present method of tapping, and not by a mold infection, as has previously been thought.

Duds Favored by Women of America

Tailored Suit, Knitted Garments, Disliked in Paris, Are O. K'd Here.

The contrasts between French styles and the simon-pure American variety is amusingly illustrated in some of the things—essential and otherwise—which French women will not have, and vice versa, observes a fashion critic in the New York Times. The tailored suit, for example, adored by Americans, avoided by Parisians, is this season more obviously popular than ever before.

The tailored suit is our typical street costume, simple, severe, chic and perfect in workmanship, a lady's dress. The Parisian woman, equally charming, will wear a one-piece, a coat dress, a tunic, a three-piece, anything other than the strictly tailored frock.

To us the sometimes dainty, occasionally fine and elaborate, always convenient shirtwaist is one of the comforts of life, but while some of the most attractive blouses come to us from Paris, her women will have none of them. And the knitted frocks, so popular on this side of the water, find few admirers in France, except, of course, in the heavier wools for the sports.

The Americans delight in knitted suits, skirts, jackets, sweaters and hats, and the flapper is a joy to behold in one such outfit in the new models, especially of white, in combinations of pale blue, jade green, yellow or scarlet. The prettiest little suits of this sort are shown by some of the prominent American houses, the smaller specialty shops and sporting goods establishments. The color is usually in hands-on the sweater or coat, at the skirt bottom, and trimming the collar and cuffs.

Another fancy of Americans which finds no response at Paris is that of "fuzzy" goods. Borrowing from London, some of the smartest sports togs, coats and street suits are made of Three-Piece Suit in White and Black Chiffon; Bodice Stitched in Silver.

"English materials," as they are called. They include all the rough serges, chevrons, homespun, the Scotch mixtures and plaids, that, like black satin and white linen, are staples of the wardrobe.

French women prefer the smooth sort of materials that cling more closely to the figure, and that add no width to the silhouette. This is especially significant now that stays have been so universally discarded and elastic girdles only are worn.

Traveling Coat and Dress

A summer coat and a silk dress of tulle or crepe will be very good for traveling. Suits of crepe are also quite serviceable. Have your underwear of silk if you can, as that means little room in packing it and also ease in caring for it. You will need shoes for wear with the suit or dress and a change to dressy shoes for dinner. Hose of lighter color and to match the hat and gloves can be worn with the dark shoes.

High Waistlines

Party frocks for young girls are more than reminiscent of the time of the Empress Josephine—they are practically copies of the gowns of those picturesque days. With their high waistlines and floating ruffles of tulle they are delightfully old-fashioned. Some are carried out in quaint pompadour silks.

Using Dye on Straw Hat

When renovating a straw hat by using dye the softness of the straw may be retained by first thoroughly wetting the hat with water and then applying the dye. It also makes the dye flow more smoothly.

In the Rose Shades

Lingerie has gone back to the rose shades. These are not, however, the pale pastels, but deep tones of dawn and the blush rose type.

HERRICK REFRIGERATORS

The Big Difference In Refrigerators

The main object of any refrigerator, of course, is the preservation of foods. The refrigerator that will keep foods in perfect condition longest is naturally the refrigerator you want—provided it doesn't increase your ice bills.

The Herrick answers those requirements with facts—not claims. And it does even more. It actually decreases your ice bills while giving you more effective food preservation.

And why? Simply because the Herrick is far more than an ice box—far more than a cold storage place. It is built on the scientifically demonstrated principle that more than merely cold air is necessary to keep foods in good condition for any great length of time.

Perhaps the biggest essentials to scientifically correct refrigeration are—

- No. 1. Circulation of cold dry air.
- No. 2. Effective Insulation.
- No. 3. Air-tight construction.

That the Herrick has these necessary essentials is a demonstrated fact.

Many proofs of the truth are visible even to the least informed purchaser. Others are hidden within the walls of the refrigerator, but nevertheless there, performing their functions so important to good health and economy.

CROP CONDITIONS

H. M. Crites Makes Observations in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

H. M. Crites has returned home from a western trip thru the states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and made a note of the crop conditions thru the states he visited.

The condition of the wheat crop in southern Ohio, from New Holland west will be a failure. There is practically no wheat worth cutting in this section. There will be a one-third crop of wheat in this county. Both Indiana and Illinois fare better, but the wheat crop in these states is not up to the average, a two-third wheat crop will be harvested in these states.

The weather conditions in Indiana and Illinois are the same as in Ohio and the farmers are three weeks behind in corn planting. Mr. Crites visited his canning factories at Chrisman, Newman and Tuscola and also spent some time in Decatur, Illinois.

DIPHTHERIA

Co-ferece Will be H-ld at City Cottg:
Thursda., June 5.

Among the many efforts of health officials to reduce the amount of sickness and death from preventable causes the most recent is a campaign to save babies and young children from needless suffering and death from diphtheria.

This campaign, inaugurated by the Ohio department of health, is to be carried into as many communities of the state as time will permit. Local health officials and medical societies are cooperating to demonstrate the most recent advances in saving lives.

The value of the educational and demonstration work of the state department of health has long since been proved in tuberculosis clinics and in conferences for crippled children and for mothers and infants all of which endeavor to show the advantage of "keeping well." It is only reasonable that we should provide for ourselves the same kind of careful periodic inspection that we are in the habit of giving our automobiles, factory machinery and pedigreed livestock.

Vaccination has enabled us successfully to combat smallpox; safe water supplies and immunization have robbed typhoid fever of all its former importance as a death dealing disease. And now a further advance in science is to enable us soon to place diphtheria in that list of relatively unimportant causes of death.

We will be able to do this if we can have the cooperation of parents and guardians. On Thursday, June 5, such an opportunity will be given this community to take advantage of this latest advance in preventive medicine to protect your children against that dreaded disease, diphtheria.

Everybody help eradicate diphtheria from Ohio.

The conference will be held at Miss Phelps cottage in Circleville, Ohio.

OHIO'S FLAG IS BEAUTY

Presented to Department Thru Efforts of Postmaster Gessley.

When a Buckeye Visits Washington He Can See the Red, White and Blue of Ohio Showing Up as Proudly as the Flags of Our Sister States.

Thru the courtesy of Postmaster Orrin L. Gessley, secretary of the Ohio Postmaster's association, the state flag of Ohio, which will be presented by the association to the post office department at Washington D. C., this week was shown to a representative of this paper.

The flag was made by the M. C. Lilley company, of Columbus, and was sent to Postmaster Gessley Tuesday for his examination and acceptance before being sent on to the postal department.

The flag is pennant in shape and is the only pennant among the state flags of the Union. The flag is four feet by seven feet in size and is made of flag silk.

The Ohio flag was designed by John Eiserman, architect of the Ohio building at the Pan-American exposition, and was later adopted by the committee, and by the general assembly of Ohio in 1902. This same assembly by the way adopted the scarlet carnation, President McKinley's favorite flower, as the floral emblem of the state.

The legend of the flag. The triangle formed by the main lines of the flag, represent the hills and valleys as typified in the state seal and the stripes the roads and waterways. There are three red and two white stripes on a field of blue. Grouped about a circle of white, are thirteen white stars, representing the thirteen original states of the Union, Ohio being the seventeenth state admitted into the Union is shown by adding four more stars to the galaxy.

Many people think the white circle around the red center stands for "Ohio." There is perhaps some reason for this conclusion, but the real truth of the matter is that it means "Circleville." The proportions and symmetry of the flag are such that it may be shown in any position without affecting its symbolism.

The idea of making the gift to the post office department at Washington originated with Mr. Gessley. When the latter learned that Ohio had a dinky cotton flag among the fine collection at the postoffice department, he immediately got busy and brought the matter before the association of Ohio postmasters with the result that today the Old Buckeye state need not be ashamed of its state emblem among the collection of its sister states at the national capital. It was thru the energy and thoughtfulness of one of our sons, that a silken and perhaps the most beautiful of the whole lot, will have a home in the postal department and when a native Buckeye visits the busiest place in Washington he will see the red, white and blue colors of his native state flag showing up as proudly as those of its sister states.

The silken flag, together with a nine foot staff, mounted by a golden eagle and a belt to carry the flag when marching was forwarded to the post office department Tuesday by Postmaster Gessley.

WILL MAKE WARS USELESS

These many years science and invention have made war more and more costly, in both human life and hard cash. In 1918 our chemical warfare service was by congress allotted 48,000 men and appropriated for its use was $100,000,000. Sixty-three poison gases with impossible names, but twenty-six being deadly, were actually used in the late World war.

Now comes Grindell Matthews, an English scientist who has discovered a "certain invisible ray" which causes telephones, wireless or any other electric apparatus to cease to function. It will take films which, thrown on a screen will simultaneously make audible the voices of the actors. Matthews gave a demonstration stopping motor engines, causing gunpowder to explode and to light lamps.

When engines of battleships and battleplanes can be stopped by radioactivity, when powder magazines can be exploded on land or at sea, by this supreme force, the era of militarism will be necessarily one of the nightmares of the past.

Absolute knowledge have I none,
But my aunt's washer-woman's sister's son,
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer on the street,
That he had a letter just last week,
A letter which he did not seek—
From a Chinese merchant in Timbucktoo,
Who said that his brother in Cuba knew
Of an Indian Chief in a Texas town
Who got the dope from a circus clown
That a man in the Klondike had it straight
From a guy in a South American State,
That a wild man over in Borneo
Was told by a woman who claimed to know
Of a well known society rake,

CROP CONDITIONS

H. M. Crites Makes Observations in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

H. M. Crites has returned home from a western trip thru the states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and made a note of the crop conditions thru the states he visited.

The condition of the wheat crop in southern Ohio, from New Holland west will be a failure. There is practically no wheat worth cutting in this section. There will be a one-third crop of wheat in this county. Both Indiana and Illinois fare better, but the wheat crop in these states is not up to the average, a two-third wheat crop will be harvested in these states.

The weather conditions in Indiana and Illinois are the same as in Ohio and the farmers are three weeks behind in corn planting. Mr. Crites visited his canning factories at Chrisman, Newman and Tuscola and also spent some time in Decatur, Illinois.

DIPHTHERIA

Co-ference Will be H-d at City Cottg:
Thursday, June 5.

Among the many efforts of health officials to reduce the amount of sickness and death from preventable causes the most recent is a campaign to save babies and young children from needless suffering and death from diphtheria.

This campaign, inaugurated by the Ohio department of health, is to be carried out in many communities of the state as time will permit. Local health officials and medical societies are cooperating to demonstrate the most recent advances in saving lives.

The value of the educational and demonstration work of the state department of health has long since been proved in tuberculosis clinics and in conferences for crippled children and for mothers and infants all of which endeavor to show the advantage of "keeping well" over the old plan of "getting well." It is only reasonable that we should provide for ourselves the same kind of careful, periodic inspection that we are in the habit of giving our automobiles, factory machinery and pedigreed livestock.

Vaccination has enabled us successfully to combat smallpox; safe water supplies and immunization have robbed typhoid fever of all its former importance as a death dealing disease. And now a further advance in science is to enable us soon to place diphtheria in that list of relatively unimportant causes of death.

We will be able to do this if we can have the cooperation of parents and guardians. On Thursday, June 5, such an opportunity will be given this community to take advantage of this latest advance in preventive medicine to protect your children against that dreaded disease, diphtheria.

Everybody help eradicate diphtheria from Ohio.

The conference will be held at Miss Phelps cottage in Circleville, Ohio.

Closing Exercises Held May 22—B g

Dinner Served by P. T. A.

On Thursday, May 22, the ladies of the P. T. A., of the Hill school in Monroe township, gathered at the school house about 11:30 with well filled baskets. At the noon hour the baskets were opened and the contents were spread on tables which accommodated about 150 people.

After dinner everyone enjoyed the program that was given by the pupils of the school and their teacher, Lloyd C. Neff. Rev. Roberts, of New Holland, also gave a very interesting address. A very enthusiastic ball game was held and also some jumping contests. The P. T. A. that was organized during the past year has proved very successful as well as entertaining.

As evening drew near the patrons departed to their homes feeling that a very successful year had just passed.

AMUSEMENTS

Night scenes among the great red-woods of Boulder Creek canyon, northern California, are one of the attractive spectacles of "Salomy Jane," a Paramount picture, which is at the Met theater this week. These inspiring scenes were made possible by a huge battery of electric arc lights and the achievement is one more step in the advancement of the technique of making motion pictures.

Gatherings of the Vigilantes by night, a stage robbery during a midnight storm, rides along roads bordered by black forests—all these are made possible by the use of electric lights.

The George Melford production, "Salomy Jane," is a tale of the romantic days of '49 when the law was crudely meted out by the Vigilantes, an organization of settlers formed to keep the peace.

"The Man," a stranger in Red Dog, falls victim to this primitive justice. He is accused of robbing a stage coach and when about to be led away to be hanged is kissed good-bye by Salomy Jane, an impulsive daughter of a pioneer. The stranger escapes but Red Pete, also charged with the hold-up is hanged. Returning to thank Salomy for her kiss, the man meets an old enemy, Baldwin, and in the struggle Baldwin is shot by another man in ambush.

Fearing that he may be blamed for Baldwin's death, he attempts to escape by wearing the clothes of Madison Clay, Salomy's father. Larabee, a rough pioneer and an enemy of Clay's shoots at the man by mistake. In the ensuing fight Larabee is wounded. Dying, he confesses that Baldwin was the state coach robber. The love romance of the stranger and Salomy ends happily.

Jacqueline Logan plays the role of "Salomy Jane," while George Fawcett takes the part of "Yuba Bill," a stage-coach driver and Maurice Flynn portrays "The Man." They are supported by a strong cast of some of the most talented players of the screen.

SOME LITTLE BUG.
In these days of indigestion, it is oftentimes a question
As to what to eat and what to leave alone;
For each microbe and bacillus has different way to kill us,
And in time they always claim us for their own.

There are germs of every kind in any food that you can find
In the market or upon the bill of fare
Drinking water's just as risky as the so-called deadly whisky,
And it's often a mistake to breathe the air.

Some little bug is going to find you some day,
Some little bug will creep behind you some day,
Then he'll send for his bug friends
And all your earthly trouble ends;
Some little bug is going to creep behind you some day,

The inviting cucumber gets most everybody's number,
While the green corn has a system all its own;
Tho a radish seems quite nutritious, it's behavior is quite vicious,
And the doctor will be coming to your home.

Eating lobster, cooked or plain, is only flirting with ptomaine,
While an oyster sometimes has a lot to say.
But the clams we eat in chowder make the angels chant the louder
For they know we'll be with them right away.

Take a slice of nice fried onion and you're fit for Dr. Munyon,
Apple dumplings kill you quicker than a train.
Chew a cheesy midnight "rabbit" and a grave you'll soon inhabit—
Ah, to eat at all is such a foolish game

Eating huckleberry pie is a pleasing way to die,
While sauerkraut brings on softening of the brain.
When you eat banana fritters every undertaker titters,
And the casketmakers nearly go insane.

Some little bug is going to find you some day,
Some little bug will creep behind you some day,
With a nervous little quiver he'll give cirrhosis of the liver.
Some little bug is going to find you some day

When cold storage vaults I visit I can only say what is it
Makes poor mortals fill my system with such stuff
Now for breakfast, prunes are dandy if a stomach pump is handy
And your doctor can be found quite soon enough.

Eat a plate of fine pigs' knuckles and the head stone cutter chuckles,
While the grave digger makes a note upon his cuff.
Eat that lovely red bologna and you'll wear a wooden kimona,
As your relatives start scrapping about your stuff.

Some little bug is going to find you some day,
Some little bug will creep behind you some day,
Eating juicy sliced pineapple makes the sexton dust the chapel;
Some little bug is going to find you some day.

All those crazy foods they mix will float us 'cross the River Styx,
Or they'll start us climbing up the milky way;
And the meals we eat in courses mean a hearse and two black horses
So before a meal some people always pray.

Luscious grapes breed 'pendictis, and the juice leads to gastritis,
So there's only death to greet us either way;
And fried liver's nice but mind you, friends, will soon ride slow behind you
And the papers then will have nice things to say.

Some little bug is going to find you some day,
Some little bug will creep behind you some day.
Eat some sauce, they call it chili, on your breast they'll plant a lily,
Some little bug is going to find you some day.

Peruvian Sugar.
The enormous production of sugar cane to the acre is one of the surprises of Peru. An average crop of forty tons an acre is obtained, while sixty and even seventy tons is not uncommon. In other sugar growing countries, including Cuba, twenty-five tons per acre is the rule.

Keep Out the Moisture.
A very effective agent for moisture proofing wood has been found in aluminum leaf coating. HILL SCHOOL

Closing Exercises Held May 22 - B g Dinner Served by P. T. A.

On Thursday, May 22, the ladies of the P. T. A., of the Hill school in Monroe township, gathered at the school house about 11:30 with well filled baskets. At the noon hour the baskets were opened and the contents were spread on tables which accommodated about 150 people.

After dinner everyone enjoyed the program that was given by the pupils of the school and their teacher, Lloyd C. Neff. Rev. Roberts, of New Holland, also gave a very interesting address. A very enthusiastic ball game was held and also some jumping contests. The P. T. A. that was organized during the past year has proved very successful as well as entertaining.

As evening drew near the patrons departed to their homes feeling that a very successful year had just passed.

AIRPLANE AS AID TO CUPID

By MYRA A. WINGATE

(©, 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"DR. HOLT to see Miss Carlyle," said the young man as the maid opened the door.

"Sure, sir, she's gone. Went away on the train this mornin'."

The doctor winced under the blow, discovering that the healthy young personality harbored strange and unsuspected emotions.

The mistress of the house could give but little additional information. One of the young ladies was going east and asked Miss Carlyle to go with her. Miss Carlyle thought it safer for a convalescent than traveling alone.

Standing on the curb, the doctor scanned a time-table.

"No chance of overtaking the express. Couldn't go anyway, with a lecture to deliver at 2 o'clock 50 miles away. I'll take every chance, though."

He drove to the telegraph office and sent a message to be delivered on the train to Miss Carlyle.

"Will Miss Carlyle communicate with Doctor Holt? Urgent."

He jammed down savagely on the accelerator as he drove away. An unwarlike pedestrian cleared his radiator by one skip and turned to shout resentfully.

"Why don't you travel by airship?" Inspiration No. 21 He swung into the stream of cars proceeding toward the county fair grounds, dodging heedlessly in and out among them.

"I say, old chap," burred the maniac, "were you ever in love?"

"Many a time," grinned the aviator. "Take it easy, boy. The second attack is milder."

"There's but one and she left on a train East," yelled Holt.

"You are crazy!" ejaculated the airman, "and I ought to give you in charge. Why didn't you ask her before she went? How come?"

"Can you overtake that train?" asked Doctor Holt.

"You bet you!" was the succinct reply.

"Then let's go," said the doctor. "I'll pay the price."

"I have to make an exhibition flight at 2 p. m.," warned the airman.

"And I have to speak at a meeting 50 miles west at the same hour," returned the doctor grimly.

"Jumping Jehosaphat! but this is going to be one bird of a trip." Map spread out before him, the aviator talked rapidly. "I know this country. Here's the express. In an hour and a half we land at this junction. You ride on the train for half an hour. I'll hop off and land at this station ahead of you. You leave the train there. With good luck we head back before 12. That will give us about three hours to come back 140 miles, carry you 50 miles further and bring me back here. Are you game?"

"All right," said the doctor, "let's go."

The express stopped at the junction water tank and the chair car door flew open to admit a pale-faced young giant who swung an aviator's leather helmet in one hand. He strode down the aisle glancing from right to left until he came upon the girl he sought.

"Doctor Holt!" she exclaimed, rising in alarm. "Is anything the matter?"

The color rushed to his face.

"May I sit down, Miss Carlyle?" he asked. "I've come a hundred odd miles by airplane to see you for half an hour, and now I'm here I'm just a stuttering idiot."

"Sit here. Miss Freeman has gone into the other car. And please stutter some more," laughed the girl, "for I love to hear it."

"I—I'd like to stutter for you all my life. I mean I'd like to be where you could always hear me stutter. Oh, hang it! I don't know how to propose. Told you I was an idiot, but yours to command if you'll take me. Didn't know until last night that—well, I care a lot."

The words were incoherent, but his eyes pleaded for him.

"Not too fast, Doctor Holt," warned the girl gravely. "Though I'm willing to admit that I could 'care a lot,' also."

After which the moments went upon wings. Sense and memory returning temporarily, the doctor asked:

"Did you get the telegram addressed 'Miss Carlyle'?"

"What telegram?" questioned the girl, puzzled.

A lady who was passing, stepped back to say:

"Pardon me, but I could not help hearing. My name is Carlyle, also, and I have received a mystifying telegram. Perhaps it is yours."

Doctor Holt stayed her hand as she fumbled in her bag.

"Miss Carlyle, can you believe me when I tell you that the telegram is no longer necessary?"

Glancing at their radiant faces, she answered, smilingly, "Easily."

"Then keep it, please," he urged. "May you never be ill, but if you are, just follow directions."

The lady laughed outright.

"This certainly smacks of mystery, sir," she answered. "However, I will shield you. Congratulations to both."

"Some speed, boy, some speed," declared the aviator as his passenger alighted with 30 minutes to spare.

With the rapidly diminishing hum of the motor in his ears, the doctor changed collars and brushed his hair. Not one of the audience that he faced some moments later could have guessed that he had once that day been "a stuttering idiot."

Gorgeous Visiting Cards

Mrs. Burton Kingsland, author of "Etiquette for All Occasions," says that "in the early days, when everybody's visiting cards strove to be individual, the resulting products must have looked not unlike the old-fashioned valentines dear to our childhood. We read of creations made out of paper or cardboard finished with a sheen to imitate silk, enamel or what not—perhaps bordered with lace paper that framed a hand-painted landscape. The owner's name—though the raison d'être of the card—was really the least of it, but might be discovered in a graceful scroll evolving from the beak of a little bird singing in a tree top."

According to Mrs. Kingsland, even so late as the 1840s, young men of fashion affected a card highly glazed with the name in such microscopic characters as to be almost illegible, which had succeeded the custom of engraving a facsimile of the owner's signature.—Detroit News.

Peter Posepny, 21-year-old junior of the University of Wisconsin, was shot and killed by Patrick J. Powers, policeman, at Madison. The policeman says the shooting was accidental.

AIRPLANE AS AID TO CUPID

By MYRA A. WINGATE

(© 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Dr. Holt to see Miss Carlyle," said the young man as the maid opened the door.

"Sure, sir, she's gone. Went away on the train this mornin'."

The doctor winced under the blow, discovering that the healthy young personality harbored strange and unsuspected emotions.

The mistress of the house could give but little additional information. One of the young ladies was going east and asked Miss Carlyle to go with her. Miss Carlyle thought it safer for a convalescent than traveling alone.

Standing on the curb, the doctor scanned a time-table.

"No chance of overtaking the express. Couldn't go anyway, with a lecture to deliver at 2 o'clock 50 miles away. I'll take every chance, though."

He drove to the telegraph office and sent a message to be delivered on the train to Miss Carlyle.

"Will Miss Carlyle communicate with Doctor Holt? Urgent."

He jammed down savagely on the accelerator as he drove away. An unwary pedestrian cleared his radiator by one skip and turned to shout resentfully.

"Why don't you travel by airship?" Inspiration No. 2! He swung into the stream of cars proceeding toward the county fair grounds, dodging heedlessly in and out among them.

"I say, old chap," burred the maniac, "were you ever in love?"

"Many a time," grinned the aviator. "Take it easy, boy. The second attack is milder."

"There's but one and she left on a train East," yelled Holt.

"You are crazy!" ejaculated the airman, "and I ought to give you in charge. Why didn't you ask her before she went? How come?"

"Can you overtake that train?" asked Doctor Holt.

"You bet you!" was the succinct reply.

"Then let's go," said the doctor. "I'll pay the price."

"I have to make an exhibition flight at 2 p. m.," warned the airman.

"And I have to speak at a meeting 50 miles west at the same hour," returned the doctor grimly.

"Jumping Jehosophat! but this is going to be one bird of a trip," Map spread out before him, the aviator talked rapidly. "I know this country. Here's the express. In an hour and a half we land at this junction. You ride on the train for half an hour. I'll hop off and land at this station ahead of you. You leave the train there. With good luck we head back before 12. That will give us about three hours to come back 140 miles, carry you 50 miles further and bring me back here. Are you game?"

"All right," said the doctor, "let's go."

The express stopped at the junction water tank and the chair car door flew open to admit a pale-faced young giant who swung an aviator's leather helmet in one hand. He strode down the aisle glancing from right to left until he came upon the girl he sought.

"Doctor Holt!" she exclaimed, rising in alarm. "Is anything the matter?"

The color rushed to his face.

"May I sit down, Miss Carlyle?" he asked. "I've come a hundred odd miles by airplane to see you for half an hour, and now I'm here I'm just a stuttering idiot."

"Sit here, Miss Freeman has gone into the other car. And please stutter some more," laughed the girl, "for I love to hear it."

"I—I'd like to stutter for you all my life. I mean I'd like to be where you could always hear me stutter. Oh, hang it! I don't know how to propose. Told you I was an idiot, but yours to command if you'll take me. Didn't know until last night that—well, I care a lot."

The words were incoherent, but his eyes pleaded for him.

"Not too fast, Doctor Holt," warned the girl gravely. "Though I'm willing to admit that I could 'care a lot,' also."

After which the moments went upon wings. Sense and memory returning temporarily, the doctor asked:

"Did you get the telegram addressed 'Miss Carlyle'?"

"What telegram?" questioned the girl, puzzled.

A lady who was passing, stepped back to say:

"Pardon me, but I could not help hearing. My name is Carlyle, also, and I have received a mystifying telegram. Perhaps it is yours."

Doctor Holt stayed her hand as she fumbled in her bag.

"Miss Carlyle, can you believe me when I tell you that the telegram is no longer necessary?"

Glancing at their radiant faces, she answered, smilingly, "Easily."

"Then keep it, please," he urged. "May you never be ill, but if you are, just follow directions."

The lady laughed outright.

"This certainly smacks of mystery, sir," she answered. "However, I will shield you. Congratulations to both."

"Some speed, boy, some speed," declared the aviator as his passenger alighted with 30 minutes to spare.

With the rapidly diminishing hum of the motor in his ears, the doctor changed collars and brushed his hair. Not one of the audience that he faced some moments later could have guessed that he had once that day been "a stuttering idiot."

Gorgeous Visiting Cards

Mrs. Burton Kingsland, author of "Etiquette for All Occasions," says that "in the early days, when everybody's visiting cards strove to be individual, the resulting products must have looked not unlike the old-fashioned valentines dear to our childhood. We read of creations made out of paper or cardboard finished with a sheen to imitate silk, enamel or what not—perhaps bordered with lace paper that framed a hand-painted landscape. The owner's name—though the raison d'être of the card—was really the least of it, but might be discovered in a graceful scroll evolving from the beak of a little bird as-singing in a tree top."

According to Mrs. Kingsland, even so late as the 1840s, young men of fashion affected a card highly glazed with the name in such microscopic characters as to be almost illegible, which had succeeded the custom of engraving a facsimile of the owner's signature.—Detroit News.

Peter Posepny, 21-year-old junior of the University of Wisconsin, was shot and killed by Patrick J. Powers, policeman, at Madison. The policeman says the shooting was accidental.

Watches Are Affected
by Actions of Owner

"I can't understand why this watch doesn't keep proper time. I paid a good price for it, too."

Time and again one hears words to this effect from unfortunate people who simply cannot get a watch to go correctly the unceasing march of old Father Time. In many cases, however, it is not the fault of the watch at all, but of the wearer's temperament, for modern timepieces are delicately adjusted that they are affected by this.

A case is recorded of a woman who is constantly taking her watch to the maker with complaints that it was either too fast or too slow. So tired did he become of her constant visits that he wore the watch for a week himself, and found that it kept perfect time. He then made inquiries, and found that the woman was a sufferer from a nervous complaint; at times she was alert and vivacious, and at others she was the victim of fits of depression. When she was in the latter mood the watch went slow, but when she was bright and lively it gained.

Many men who limp, or have some other peculiarity in their walk, have been unable to wear a watch which keeps correct time. Even changing the pocket in which it is generally carried has been known to have a disastrous effect on the best of timepieces.

Engine drivers have on occasion found that their watches kept perfect time as long as they were working on one route, but directly they went on to relief duty and had to drive over lines with which they were not acquainted their watches became hopelessly out of order.

When you take your watch to be regulated you should, if possible, tell the watch repairer the circumstances in which the instrument went wrong.

Stars We Cannot See

Two hundred millions of millions of miles away is a star called Algol. It is the second brightest star in the constellation of Perseus, and it has the curious habit of varying in brightness at regular intervals.

After much research we know now that Algol consists of two stars—one bright, the other dark. They are each about a million miles in diameter and about two million miles apart. They revolve around one another, and when the dark star is between us and the bright one, the light we receive from the latter diminishes.

There are several other stars of the Algol type, and it is simply through our researches that we are aware that there exist in the heaven dark stars—stars which give no light at all and are in themselves totally invisible.

How many there may be we do not know, for it is only by their power of eclipsing bright stars that we can recognize them at all.

Contrasts Two Popular
Symbols of America

"There are two popular symbols of America," writes Ralph Barton Perry in the Century; discussing the cult of "Americanism" and comparing the virtue of Columbia with the humaneness of Uncle Sam.

"One is Columbia enthroned, or the statue of liberty enlightening the world. America, so symbolized, is a modern replica of Juno, whose chief concern it was to look after other people's morals. Juno was the Olympian prude, a model matron and self-appointed censor. Her modern replica stands at the portal of America and faces east, holding a torch for the edification of foreigners. The statue of liberty is, like Juno, essentially statuesque. She is the frozen perfect one. It is absolutely incompatible with her posture and she should do anything but hold the torch and wear a fixed expression of consummate virtue. It is true that she was made in France, but we have adopted her and her creation argues a Gallic insight into the moral psychology of America.

"It is to our credit, however, that we have felt the need of another symbol. While the statue of liberty embodies our conscious rectitude and inspires our laudatory and exemplary nationalism, Uncle Sam, thank God! is not a statue. He is so constituted that he could not by any strength of the imagination occupy a pedestal. He could not hold the pose without feeling ridiculous. He is hearty and fraternal, impulsive and generous and, above all, unselfconscious. He has a kind of instinctive wisdom by which he anticipates and disarms the laughter of the world by laughing promptly at himself. It is Uncle Sam who feeds the hungry tramp at the back door, while the statue of liberty reads him a lecture from the porch. It was Uncle Sam who went to France in 1917 and to Russia in 1919, while the statue of liberty remained at home—on its pedestal."

Milk Pasteurization

The general enforcement of pasteurization of milk is called for in the public interest, and there can be little doubt that, step by step, this will come into operation. It is the most practical method of state regulation; and when carried out satisfactorily, it secures immediate safety against serious risks of infection. For many years efforts to improve the sanitary conditions of the farm and the cowbarn have been made, but with results which are quite incommensurate with the expense involved. By dirt tests, bacterial counts, insistence on cooling of the milk at the farm, and allied measures, both the wholesale purchaser of the farmer's milk and the sanitary authority can do much to increase its cleanliness; but pasteurization is the essential safeguard in the public interest. Attacks on pasteurized milk are not scientifically justified, and they involve, if successful, a continuance of the supply of infective milk, with the dangers at present associated with its consumption.

Huge Meteorites

Pennsylvania seems to be a favored landing field for those wanderers of space which, when they drift into our atmosphere, are known as meteorites, or shooting stars. Most of these are burned up before reaching the ground and finds of the remnants of these metallic or stony bodies are rare. For this reason, the fact that five have been found in Pennsylvania was considered important enough to be brought to the attention of the Geological Society of America at a recent meeting in Washington. All of these Pennsylvania meteorites are iron. The first was found near Pittsburgh in 1850. The others were found at Mt. Joy, near Gettysburg, in 1887, on Bald Eagle mountain, near Williamsport in 1891, in York county in 1907, and at New Baltimore in 1922. That found on Bald Eagle mountain was shaped like a human foot and weighed only seven pounds, while the Mt. Joy meteorite is the third largest found in the United States, weighing 847 pounds.

Her Mistake

She was a big strong woman and the burglar she had tackled and captured bore unmistakable signs of punishment.

"It was very plucky of you, madam," said the magistrate, "to have set upon the burglar and captured him, but need you have blackened his eyes and knocked all his front teeth out?"

"Well," said the woman, "how was I to know it was a burglar? I'd been up three hours waiting for my husband. I thought it was him."

Ought to Hold Him

The husband, who had a great habit of teasing his wife, was out driving in the country with her, when they met a farmer driving a span of mules. Just as they were about to pass the farmer's rig the mules turned their heads toward the auto and brayed vociferously.

Turning to his wife, the husband cuttily remarked, "Relatives of yours, I suppose?"

"Yes," said the wife sweetly, "by marriage."

Heat Bursts Gravel.

The bureau of standards has found that if the concrete is made with gravel, particularly siliceous gravel, there is a tendency for the stones to burst in extreme heat, which disintegrates the concrete. Accordingly it is recommended that gravel be avoided wherever possible, but if impossible the gravel concrete may be protected from extreme heat by coating it with an inch of cement, held in place by a wire mesh. Plasters may also be used in which asbestos is the principal constituent.

It is the most practical method of state regulation; and when carried out satisfactorily, it secures immediate safety against serious risks of infection. For many years efforts to improve the sanitary conditions of the farm and the cowbarn have been made, but with results which are quite incommensurate with the expense involved. By dirt tests, bacterial counts, insistence on cooling of the milk at the farm, and allied measures, both the wholesale purchaser of the farmer's milk and the sanitary authority can do much to increase its cleanliness; but pasteurization is the essential safeguard in the public interest. Attacks on pasteurized milk are not scientifically justified, and they involve, if successful, a continuance of the supply of infective milk, with the dangers at present associated with its consumption.—Nature Magazine.

Huge Meteorites

Pennsylvania seems to be a favored landing field for those wanderers of space which, when they drift into our atmosphere, are known as meteorites, or shooting stars. Most of these are burned up before reaching the ground and finds of the remnants of these metallic or stony bodies are rare. For this reason, the fact that five have been found in Pennsylvania was considered important enough to be brought to the attention of the Geological Society of America at a recent meeting in Washington. All of these Pennsylvania meteorites are iron. The first was found near Pittsburgh in 1850. The others were found at Mt. Joy, near Gettysburg, in 1887, on Bald Eagle mountain, near Williamsport in 1891, in York county in 1907, and at New Baltimore in 1922. That found on Bald Eagle mountain was shaped like a human foot and weighed only seven pounds, while the Mt. Joy meteorite is the third largest found in the United States, weighing 847 pounds.

Her Mistake

She was a big strong woman and the burglar she had tackled and captured bore unmistakable signs of punishment.

"It was very plucky of you, madam," said the magistrate, "to have set upon the burglar and captured him, but need you have blackened his eyes and knocked all his front teeth out?"

"Well," said the woman, "how was I to know it was a burglar? I'd been up three hours waiting for my husband. I thought it was him."

Ought to Hold Him

The husband, who had a great habit of teasing his wife, was out driving in the country with her, when they met a farmer driving a span of mules. Just as they were about to pass the farmer's rig the mules turned their heads toward the auto and brayed vociferously.

Turning to his wife, the husband cuttlingly remarked, "Relatives of yours, I suppose?"

"Yes," said the wife sweetly, "by marriage."

Torchon laces, popular in America, were first made in Chefoo, China, twenty-five years ago when missionaries taught the Chinese lace-making. Chinese now compete with Belgians in making laces.

Heat Bursts Gravel.

The bureau of standards has found that if the concrete is made with gravel, particularly siliceous gravel, there is a tendency for the stones to burst in extreme heat, which disintegrates the concrete. Accordingly it is recommended that gravel be avoided wherever possible, but if impossible the gravel concrete may be protected from extreme heat by coating it with an inch of cement, held in place by a wire mesh. Plasters may also be used in which asbestos is the principal constituent.

FARMING BEST BUSINESS.

Farming is the best business in the United States to get into today, James R. Howard, head of the National Transportation Institute, declared in an address in Chicago.

"An invariable business law: Whenever any commodity is below the cost of production—buy; it will surely go higher," he said. "Whenever any commodity is above the cost of production; sell; it will inevitably go lower. The products of the farm are and have been for four years below production costs. They must inevitably, sooner or later, go higher or else all history and economics belie themselves."

HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Earl and Floyd Russell, Morrell Smith and George Brown, arrested at New Holland Tuesday on the charge of chicken stealing were up before Mayor Briggs and were bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $500 each. They were brought to this city and placed in the county jail. The prisoners range in age from 17 to 20 years. It is said, they have been stealing chickens for some time.

Charges Renewed.

Washington, May 28.—Charges that former Attorney General Daugherty failed to push an anti-trust prosecution against the United Gas Improvement company, thought the corporation had built up a "100 per cent monopoly" of street lighting, were renewed by Ragland Moman of New York before the senate committee. Paul Howland, attorney for Mr. Daugherty, got the witness to agree that he had been fighting the gas company for many years and had complained to President Wilson against the disinclination of Attorneys General Gregory and Palmer to prosecute.

McDonald to Run.

Columbus, May 28.—State Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald secured blank declaration of candidacy from the secretary of state for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. He expects to file his declaration soon. McDonald was a candidate for the Democratic nomination in 1922, and was defeated by Stephen Young, Cleveland, by only 246 votes.

SHORT ILLNESS

Caused Death of Mrs. Robert Willis Funeral Services Thursday.

Sarah Catherine Willis died at her home in Jackson township, near Pherson, Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock, after an illness since last Friday. She was the daughter of Leven and Millie Colsten Godsberry and was born in Ross county, near Frankfort, December 30, 1856.

Of her immediate family she is survived by Mrs. Effie Goldsberry, James Colsten, of Ross county; Gladson Colsten and Mrs. Fletcher, Delaware county and Mrs. Susie Lane, of Monroe township, this county.

November 28, 1878, she was united in marriage to Robert Willis and to this union were born eight children and the following survive: Mrs. Elsie Roseboom, Frankfort; Ward Willis, Ross county; Mrs. Myrtle Pitt, Delaware county; Leven Willis, Dublin, Ohio; Glad Willis, Perry township; Mrs. Millie Figlestadler, Commercial Point.

The funeral will take place from the Pherson M. E. church Thursday forenoon at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. George Clay. Interment in Brown chapel cemetery, Ross county.

THE THIRD PARTY.

A year ago nearly all the talk of the Third Party in this country centered around Henry Ford. Today Mr. Ford is a political discard, but the Third Party movement lives and centers around Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin. His serious illness has caused some of his followers and Third Party managers to canvass the field so that, in case of emergency, some one may take his place. The political situation is such that none but a foolish man or woman will close their eyes to the facts, or dismiss the condition with a wave of the hand.

Mr. Coolidge will undoubtedly be nominated by the Republicans and Mr. Coolidge will unquestionably be the party platform.

Any one of the prospective Democratic nominees will also be the platform of the party.

If Mr. La Follette heads the Third Party movement he will also be its platform.

Those at the head of the Third Party do not talk of electing a president in 1924 but back of the movement is the hope of defeating the Republican candidate or the eastern conservative wing of the party, to increase the Third Party strength in the house and senate and to be in a strong position for a winning program in 1928.

Just what states will be affected by this Third Party movement is a matter of interest. Besides Wisconsin, Idaho, Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, which are practically conceded to the Third Party. It will be remembered that after Harding's unprecedented triumph, and long before there was a breath of scandal against the party, Pennsylvania repudiated the regular organization and elected Gifford Pinchot as governor by 250,000; Howell was elected senator from Nebraska by 80,000; Hiram Johnson, progressive senator from California by 340,000; Senator Lodge the conservative leader, escaped defeat in Massachusetts by only 8000. Governor Miller, of the conservative leader of New York was defeated 380,000.

Under all the circumstances that man does not live who can foretell or even reasonably forecast just what may happen if the Third Party movement continues to gather momentum. While the movement may have a "lunatic fringe" the fact remains that the east is liable to equal the west in revolt, due to the fact that there is a group of brainy men, trained in political strategy, who are bent on preserving the national resources and curbing the power of a so-called invisible government. In any event, the permanency of democracy rests on the ability and willingness of the people to work with parties whether there be two or ten and can only result in a general benefit.

FLOWERS DECORATION DAY.

Because of the fact that there is a scarcity of flowers owing to the lateness of the season, the veterans request all people having blooms to bring them to the Memorial hall as early as eight o'clock or before on Friday so that they can be arranged in baskets, to be taken to the cemeteries.

Gold's Great Power.
